

Charlie is a third-year veterinary student at the Harper Keele Veterinary School with a keen interest in farm animal veterinary medicine. He has a vast experience of the agricultural industry having grown up and worked on a mixed farm in Sussex. The farm has a butcher's shop which Charlie has spent many years working in allowing him to develop a keen interest into the field to fork industry.