

My name is Alice Waller and I am a second-year veterinary student at Harper & Keele Veterinary School!

Upon beginning my studies, I was keen to enter the farm veterinary sector. Now I am constantly changing my mind about the career path I want to follow, and the more I learn the broader my interests become. Despite this, I have always had a soft spot for sheep, especially since bringing a handful of sock lambs home with me after completing a pre-vet placement (sorry mum!).

I have loved my time so far at university and have made friends for life, and I can't wait to see where this degree takes me in the future.
