

My name is Laura Helm, and I am pursuing a career as a veterinarian. I have currently just completed my second year of studying Veterinary Medicine at Harper & Keele Veterinary School. Prior to this, I worked as a healthcare assistant in a care home, where I cared for individuals requiring residential, nursing, and dementia care. This experience fostered my passion for caring for others and solidified my desire to pursue a career dedicated to this.

My love for animals began in childhood, growing up on a smallholding. This passion, combined with my desire to help others, motivated me to return to education at Wiltshire College. There, I obtained further qualifications in Biology, Psychology, and Chemistry. To gain practical experience, I also worked as a kennel assistant at a veterinary clinic. These experiences and my time as a student have furthered my commitment to becoming a veterinarian.
